MORE THAN A FEELING

Decker Brooks is hockey's bad boy, and he's about to spend his summer in the penalty box.

When his off-ice antics lead to on-ice trouble, The Chicago Grinders give Decker Brooks an ultimatum: stay out of trouble in the off-season, or he's off the team. So he decides to spend the summer in his tiny hometown, laying low and hanging with his childhood best friend Archer, who left the NHL after a career-ending injury. Cardinal Springs, Indiana is so boring that not even Decker Brooks can get in trouble there.

But then one bar fight and a community service sentence turn his summer—and his hockey career—upside down.

Grace has always hated her big brother's best friend. Decker was a menace when she was a kid, and if the tabloids are to be believed, he's a menace now. Unfortunately, he's the menace who's just been assigned to complete his community service at the library where Grace runs the children's programming. And Grace, who is spending her summer trying to save the library from budget cuts, does not have time to wrangle a playboy jock who can't keep his hands to himself.

It doesn't take long for their reluctant partnership to turn into a no-strings-attached fling. But as the summer heats up, it's getting harder to keep their growing feelings on ice. Unfortunately, the clock is ticking down on their relationship, and Grace and Decker will have to decide what—and who—matters most.

WITTY IN PINK

Blythe Rowley has everything—charm, a sharp wit, and a bookish nature. Well, almost everything. She could use some money, and if her mother has anything to say about it, the only way Blythe can save her family's struggling estate is by securing a rich husband. Blythe, however, has other ideas. Determined to forge her own path and control her destiny, Blythe has set up a budding apiary business. Spending the entire summer with her affluent cousin at Wrexford Park, Blythe believes that she will have ample opportunities to meet wealthy investors who will be intrigued by the business, even if it is one run by a young woman.

What she doesn't anticipate is the return of her childhood nemesis and new neighbor, Briggs Goswick. Briggs has money issues of his own, so even though the two can't stand each other, when he discovers her attempts to secure investors, Briggs offers her a deal that will benefit them both. If Blythe helps him win the heart of a wealthy but aloof young lady whose dowry is certain to be the cure to all of his monetary issues, then Briggs will introduce Blythe into society and be the front person to secure investors for her business. But the more time Blythe spends with Briggs, the closer they become, and the more she realizes that the one guy she can see herself with is the only one she can never have.

REPEAT AFTER ME

In retrospect, I probably should have passed on the ceviche.

It was already a weird Friday. My class is stuck on an eerily remote island for our senior trip, I'm pretty sure Mr. D ("call me Max") is hiding something from us, my ex-best friend turned nemesis keeps stealing my candy, and tonight's plan for my boyfriend and me to finally lose our virginity to each other is going hellishly.

I mean, ceviche is delicious, don't get me wrong. But a dish made from a supposedly immortal octopus should really come with a warning label.

Caution: consuming a telepathic sea creature of unknown origin may result in immortality, no consequences to any actions, and getting stuck in a time loop for all of eternity.

Now every morning I wake up, and it's the same Friday all over again. Same annoying classmates. Same island suspended in time by an evil oyster farmer with a God complex. Same outrageous candy theft. The only person I can count on to keep me from losing my grip on this new reality is Louis, my best friend who knows me better than anyone else in this world.

This should be a cephalopod-induced nightmare but somehow—in some ridiculous way—I feel like I'm experiencing the extraordinary, the gift of endless opportunities to get things right. But when I wake up every morning and it's Friday again, sometimes it feels more like a never-ending prison sentence.

They say some things are worse than death...

...guess I'm about to find out.

DOUBLE EXPOSURE

Maiko Fox and Adrian Hightower were young, beautiful, in love... and famous. The latest model to grace the Valentina Posh runway show and the hottest new superhero actor were Hollywood's breakout couple. They were in every magazine, all over the most popular celebrity-blogs, and on countless E! News stories.

They starred in a blockbuster film together, reaping box-office gold. Fans were at a fever pitch. No one could get enough of Madrian, the couple that printed money for the studios, for the paparazzi, for themselves.

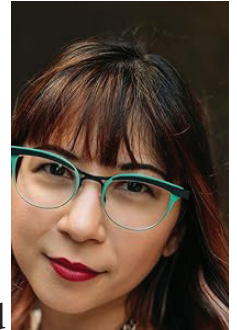

But then, their relationship crumbled.

Years later, with Adrian topping the Hollywood A-list as a writer and director, dating the country's biggest pop star, and Maiko starring in movies for her celebrated producer-director husband, they live totally different lives. But they can never be too far apart. Madrian is still a box office draw, and the studios keep throwing them together.

As the two grow more and more entangled again professionally, Maiko and Adrian have to reckon with themselves: are they happy with their current lives? Or have they grown to be better people when with each other?

ELISSA R. SLOAN is a Texas-native Japanese-American with a penchant for reading books and celebrity gossip. She lives in Austin with her husband and two cats in a house with a rolling library ladder.

“Elissa Sloan has crafted another spellbinding novel. I could not put down Double Exposure, the love story of two vulnerable and flawed Hollywood stars, Maiko and Adrian. If—like me—you love both beautiful literary fiction and scrolling celebrity gossip, this is your next perfect read.” — Amanda Eyre Ward, New York Times bestselling author of The Jetsetters?

SARGASSA

An unlikely group of rebels are ready to burn down the empire in the first book in a new speculative trilogy that explores gender, sexuality, and oppression within an empire teetering on the brink of rebellion.

Told from multiple POVs: a young heiress, an undercover spy, a bastard brother and a fugitive who has history with all three, Sargassa equal parts political intrigue, queer romance, and revolution.

Selah Kleios is twenty-two years old and suddenly one of the most important women in the empires. The role of Imperial Historian is her birthright, something she's been preparing for since birth - but she was supposed to have more time to learn the role from her father, the previous Historian. In the wake of her father's sudden and shocking assassination, Selah finds herself custodian of more than just the Imperial Archives, the towering central library that safeguards all collective knowledge of the Roman Imperium and its client empires. There's also the question of the two puzzling classified items her father left in her care - an ancient atlas filled with landscapes that don't exist, and a carved piece of stone that seems to do nothing at all.

SOPHIE BURNHAM (they/them) is the author of the Ex Romana trilogy of speculative fiction novels. The first book Sargassa publishes on October 8, 2024 from DAW Books.

They have been a participating writer in—and script doctor behind—multiple studio film and television projects. They're a recovering theatre kid with a BFA in Acting from Syracuse University. Sometimes they fall off the wagon. They've still been known to direct a play now and again.

Sophie lives with their dog on an island in Rhode Island, which is not an island.

The first in a speculative trilogy for fans of Arkady Markine's A Memory Called Empire, Rebecca Roanhorse's Black Sun, and P. Djeli Clark's A Master of Djinn, SARGASSA is equal parts political intrigue, queer coming-of-age, sibling rivalry, and reckoning with the timeless desire for a burn-it-all-down revolution.

LIAR'S KINGDOM

Can “happily-ever-after” start with a lie?

Ell DeBrun is the girl of the cinders. The girl who’s spent years slaving away for her cruel stepmother and ungrateful stepsisters, dreaming of rescue.

So when Prince Bayard - who seems to have difficulty recognizing faces - shows up at her door with a glass slipper in hand, Ell allows him to believe she is the girl he danced with at the grand ball.

There’s just one problem: Ell didn’t attend the ball and she’s never met the prince before in her life. But Ell is willing to concoct any fairy tale that will grant her an escape.

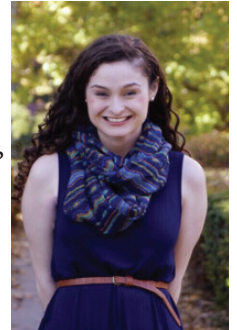

But Ell finds that fitting into royal life isn’t as easy as sliding into a glass slipper. Bayard’s sister, the crown princess, has gone missing.

The king is preparing for war with the sinister army of fae,

And Maxim, Bayard’s treacherous (and unfortunately, terribly handsome) best friend, appears to know Ell’s secrets - and is just waiting for the most advantageous moment to call her bluff. As her lies pile up like unwashed plates, she knows they’re only seconds away from crashing down on her head.

CHRISTINE CALELLA lives in a place she refers to as “New York City-adjacent.” She spends her spare time singing show tunes in the shower, drinking more chai lattes than is strictly necessary, and either over- or under-watering an unfortunate string of houseplants named after sitcom characters.

Brimming with romantic tropes including a smoldering enemies-to-lovers romace, backstabbing, and unrequited love -- all ending with unexpected yet satisfying happily-ever-afters, LIAR'S KINGDOM is a twisty Cinderella retelling in the vein of Into the Woods, Stepsister, and The Guinevere Deception with hints of The Cruel Prince.

THE LIAR'S CLUB

He's the former vice president's son. And my biggest bully. Cold. Cruel.

Devastatingly gorgeous.

The moment I walk on campus we lock eyes and I see the hatred burning in his gaze. Everyone at Winfield Academy despises us, especially him. No matter what I do, or how hard I try to avoid him, he won't leave me alone. What makes everything worse?

The night he kissed me—and I kissed him back.

He runs the student body with an iron-clad fist and expects me to be one of his dutiful followers, but I came to this school to learn something. To become something more. I'm not about to let him control me, though I can't deny the attraction growing between us.

Every single person at this school has secrets, even me, but I believe his are the biggest ones of all. When he warns me someone else on campus is guarding their own secrets, I realize he's serious. And they will do whatever it takes to stop me--us--from discovering them...

TAKE A CHANCE ON ME

The international bestselling author of Better Off Friends returns to form with a love story that's Once meets The Statistical Probability of Love at First Sight.

Evie is heartbroken and betrayed when a video of her confronting her cheating ex boyfriend goes viral, so what's a girl to do? Flee to London for the summer, of course! Evie loves everything about London -- the double decker buses, afternoon tea, history around every corner. Everything that is but having to stay with the person who's hurt her most of all -- her father.

Desperate for a distraction from their contentious relationship, Evie spends her days wandering the historic streets . . . where as though fate is intervening, she keeps meeting a charming and beautiful British busker named Aiden.

Evie doesn't want to open herself up again, but Aiden is funny, kind, and he never treats Evie like she's too much. He may just be worth taking a chance on . . . if Evie can keep her past from getting in the way of her future.

Internationally bestselling author Elizabeth Eulberg pens an unforgettable journey that's heartwarming, hilarious, and heavy on both romance and jetlag.

STEAL THE SKY

The oceans have risen and are poisonous to touch, making travel outside of the high-rise homes of Horizon City a treacherous and often deadly prospect. Anyone who comes into contact with the water contracts the Blight, an inevitably fatal illness. Scavengers of derelict parts of the city, Skyclimber crews are athletic, fearless, and as tight-knit as it gets: their survival depends on their trust in each other and the treasures they find on their missions. 16-year-old Moon, a strong and sharp Skyclimber rookie, is to prove herself. After all, her crew are the only people she's got left—well, except for Barker, a charismatic hacker whom she flirts with every day but has never met.

While on a scavenging mission, Moon uncovers information that changes everything she knew about Horizon City. Searching for answers, she reaches out to Barker, only to discover that he has been lying to her about his true identity. Furious and heartbroken, she sets out on a perilous journey to confront him—only to find that their families share a complex and murky past, mired in ethical quandaries and long buried truths that now threaten to rise to the surface and shake the foundations of their world.

THE GROUND THAT DEVOURS US

Ruby's been fighting vampires since her mother's death, seeking to climb the ranks of her human compound and to protect the only family she has left, her sister. But when a scavenging mission goes wrong, her sister gets turned into the one thing Ruby has always fought against – a vampire. One that is now the top target of her compound's security task force.

The only way to bring her sister home safely is to restore her humanity through the compound's nearly finished vampire cure. Ruby just has to make sure her sister stays hidden and safe long enough to take it. Unfortunately, the one person who can guarantee that safety is the vampire Ruby hates the most – X, who's responsible for turning her sister.

Reluctantly, she strikes a deal with him: if he'll keep her sister safe, she'll help him break into the compound's lab and save his imprisoned friend. But the alliance isn't without its problems - X's charm proves to be as dangerous as his fangs as Ruby can't seem to decide whether she wants to kill him or kiss him. Not to mention that teaming up with a vampire is treason. Ruby doesn't just have to watch her back in case X betrays her, but she'll have to work to keep her new alliance a secret from her own people or risk execution. Trusting the wrong person – vampire or human – will mean the death of both her and her sister.

A full-time daydreamer, KALLA HARRIS has wanted to be an author since she was eight years old—although she's now traded her composition notebooks for a computer.

When she's not writing high-stakes young adult books with lots of kissing, you can find her curled up with a good story, perfecting her mac and cheese recipe, or rewatching The Vampire Diaries (Hi, Damon!). Kalla resides in the Upstate of South Carolina with her husband.

BOUNDLESS

Welcome aboard the Boundless— a gender-bent YA Titanic in space that follows the inaugural voyage of the Boundless, the most luxurious and indestructible spaceship in the galaxy. Blending the lavish world of politics and parties from The Stars We Steal with the timeless classic, Titanic, Boundless is a grounded YA sci-fi that brings a new twist to literal star-crossed lovers.

Seventeen-year-old loner Weslie wins a first-class ticket on the Boundless through her cutting-edge AI creation. Thrown into a world of the Mars elite, she must navigate the differences between her dust-ridden home on Earth and their lavish way of life. If she can survive the thirty-six-day journey to the red planet and sell her design to the company heads on Mars, she'll change her life forever.

Jupiter's dreaded return home means an inevitable arranged engagement and taking on the responsibilities of his parents' multi-trillion-dollar company. The voyage back to the Mars habitat is Jupiter's last chance to convince his domineering mother to allow him to decide his own future. Falling in love with an Earther makes that freedom more desirable than ever.

Days from their destination, an anti-elite resistance group sabotages the luxury ship: hijacking comms, cutting off oxygen supply, and destroying half the escape pods. The Boundless won't make it to Mars. To have any future, together or apart, Jupiter and Weslie must work together to make it off the ship alive.

EMILY "E.L." STARLING grew up in the center of California, midway between all the cities anyone has ever heard of. THE AUSTEN AFFAIR

C-1st actress Tess Bright grew up in a messy SoCal apartment watching Jane Austen flicks on repeat with her mom. When Mom passes away and Tess lands a breakout role as the female lead in a Northanger Abbey adaptation, she emerges from her grief cocoon with everything to prove.

One big problem?

Her upsettingly handsome castmate, Hugh Balfour, whose rigid acting methodology allows no room to collaborate with a go-with-the-flow whirlwind like Tess.

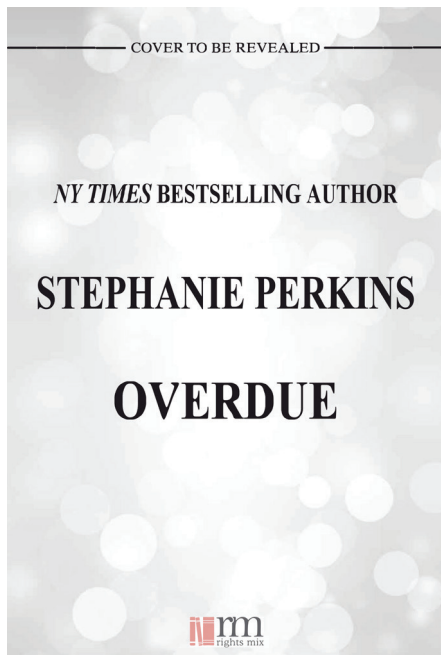

MADELINE BELL is a romance writer who has never met an enemies-to-lovers trope she didn't like. She spends much of her free time ranking and continually reranking different adaptations of Jane Austen novels, and like a true rom-com heroine, she has a quirky day job working in a creative arts field in New York City.

NOT TODAY, SATAN

The Chilling Adventures of Sabrina* meets The Good Place in this hilariously poignant YA rom com that is one hell of a good time.

Seventeen-year-old Devica has lived in Hell her entire life. Like, the actual place, not a metaphor or anything. Her dad rules it now, but as of her eighteenth birthday, he intends to take off and retire on the beach, leaving her in charge. It's not exactly the future of her dreams.

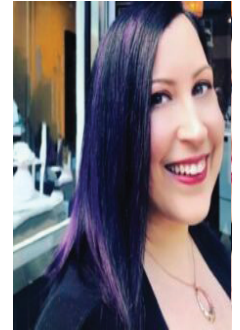

Devica meets fellow teenager, Nathan Reynolds, while checking in new sinners. He is sentenced for the murder of his foster father but maintains his innocence. Devica sends him to his lot in Hell, as her father never makes mistakes.

A few nights later, Nathan breaks out of his lot and ends up in Devica's bedroom, where he once again insists he is innocent. She doesn't believe him but uses her sight—the power gifted to her by genetics—to see if he's guilty. Instead, she finds his mind blank, with no sin tarnishing his soul. As Nate is dragged away by the guards, Devica begins to doubt her father's judgement of him.

Devica visits her dad to try to get answers but instead finds a recent photo of her mother—a mother her father claimed was dead. Apparently, her mother is not only alive, but she's living on earth. Devica decides to break out of Hell to find her mother and she's sure as hell going to take Nathan with her. Plus, he might be useful with all of his knowledge about Earth.

Devica breaks Nathan out of his Lot and they begin their long journey through Hell. Along the way, they face obstacles that test them both physically and mentally. As their feelings for each other grow, so do their problems. Hell is just one hurdle, but Earth? Well, that's a different story. Can their relationship go through and hell and back?

THE LIBRARY OF CURIOSITIES

After being expelled from her boarding school, eleven-year-old Rowan Fitzgerald travels to Fitzgerald Manor - a wondrous estate she never knew her family owned - to live with her secretive, estranged grandfather, only to discover that the library he runs is filled not with books, but magical objects called curiosities.

Rowan loves everything about the library: its collection of enchanted objects, its quirky patrons, and the whimsical carousel cafe where she hangs out with her new friends.

When curiosities start disappearing and suspicion falls upon Rowan she sets out to clear her name before her grandfather sends her away again. In the course of her investigations, she discovers her family and their arch-enemy have been engaged in a centuries-long feud to recover a powerful curiosity called the Everheart, a magical object that can spin the user forward in time. Little does Rowan know, the Everheart is closer to her than she could ever imagine - and that she'll have to keep from losing everything she holds dear.

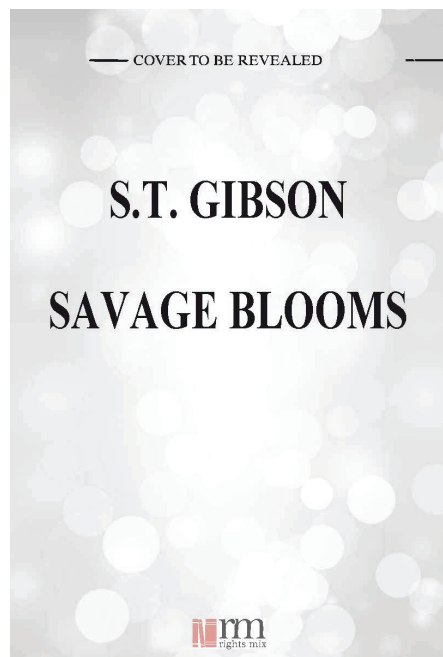

JENNY LUNDQUIST grew up in Huntington Beach, California, wearing glasses and wishing they had magic powers. They didn't, but they did help her earn a degree in intercultural studies at Biola University. Jenny has painted an orphanage in Mexico, taught English at a university in Russia, and hopes one day to write a book at a café in Paris. THE LIBRARY OF CURIOSITIES will appeal to anyone who has ever dreamt about wandering around the Hogwarts Library.

SAVAGE BLOOMS

Adam has been in love with his best friend Nicola since college, but the closest he can come to admitting his feelings is inviting her to travel with him to Scotland in search of a legendary cave from his grandfather's bedtime stories.

When a storm washes out the road, Adam and Nicola find themselves at the mercy of Eileen, an eccentric aristocrat, and Finley, her brooding groundskeeper. The Americans quickly get more than they bargained for as they become entangled in Eileen and Finley's world of mind games, kink and ancient enchantment.

S.T. GIBSON is the British Fantasy Award-nominated and Goodreads Choice Award-nominated author of the Sunday Times bestseller A Dowry of Blood and the USA Today bestseller Evocation.
