Clovis Meets His Match

By Katelyn Aronson

Illustrated by Benji Williams

When a buzzing drill heralds the opening of a new china shop in town--right across the street from his china shop--Clovis is alarmed. Worse, the shop is modern, classy, and run by charismatic elephant Alastair, who everyone seems to love. Soon Alistair's elevated events begin to overshadow Clovis's classic cozy atmosphere, and Clovis can't help but feel upset, with many of his regulars headed across the street.

Taking matters into his own hands, Clovis tosses trouble into his rival's store. But when old connections are revealed between the two--connections that span generations back to Clovis's own beloved Granny Grace--can Clovis and Alistair see eye to eye and realize that they have more in common than at first glance?

Filled to the brim with community spirit, double the cozy tea shops, and fun, this playful timeless tale is ready to remind competitive kids that a rival can mean a friend rather than a fight.

“An homage to fond memories, friendship, the spirit of cooperation, and love of grandparents.” –Kirkus

Clovis Suspects A Sneak

By Katelyn Aronson

With winter in swing, Clovis's tea shop has never been cozier! But though his bullying days are over, Clovis is still working on trust—and as things disappear from his shop, he can't help but suspect those closest to him. Soon he's hovering over customers, accusing his best friends, and even questioning his cat! His mounting mistrust drives everyone away and leaves Clovis feeling like a cold, soggy teabag that no kettle could warm.

Desperate to crack the case, he takes inspiration from Granny, stirring up a sweet setup to catch the culprit. But when the mystery of the missing items is not what it seems, can Clovis keep his cool and warm his heart enough to restore peace to his shop? After all, he's a bull, not a bully.

Ready to be read aloud on frosty winter days or at any time of year, this heartwarming tale is a perfect reminder to trust in friends and be gentle and generous even in tough moments.

When PB Met J

By Katelyn Aronson

Illustrated by Sarah Rebar

Penguin/Viking, January 2023

The best friendship since sliced bread!

The kitchen may look like a peaceful place, but there was never more division than between the Fridgers and the Cupboard Crew. The Fridgers could be a little too cool. The Cupboard Crew—well, they often got stale. It was clear that the two should never mix. But that was until Peanut Butter (PB, for short) met Jelly. When Jelly finds herself in a sticky situation, it's Peanut Butter to the rescue.

When PB Met J is the deliciously funny origin story of every child's favorite lunch. Readers will cheer that these sweet and salty characters should always stick together.

🗨️ "Readers will clamor for more." —School Library Journal

💬 "A friendship story with a heaping helping of puns." —Kirkus

Poo-Dunit?: A Forest Floor Mystery

By Katelyn Aronson

Illustrated by Stephanie Laberis

Candlewick, 2022

This rollicking, rhyming tale of animal poo will have children squealing with laughter—even as they learn about forest ecosystems and discover surprising facts about scat!

A Bank Street Best Children's Book of 2022!

An Imagination Soup Best Picture Book of 2022!

Mouse is dismayed to step outside her house one morning only to discover a giant pile of poo! Who could have done such a dastardly deed? Mouse questions all the animals of the forest, but it's too big to be Squirrel's, too dark to be Coyote's, and too messy to be Deer's. Will Mouse ever track down the culprit—and will she find a way to make the best of this smelly situation? Between giggles at every mention of the word poo, children will learn to identify eight different animals' scat and discover how droppings can help plants to grow, all while enjoying Katelyn Aronson's rhyming text and Stephanie Laberis's expressive animals. Back matter includes a mini "poo-dunit" mystery challenging children to match scat with the correct animal, as well as a note on why poo is precious—and who is responsible for the biggest poo of all!

"Aronson's rhymed verses will be a treat to read aloud, assuming, that is, they can be heard over audience laughter... should reduce any storytime group to pandemonium." —The Bulletin of the Center for Children's Books Starred review

The Hole

By Lindsay Bonilla

Illustrated by Brizida Magro

Penguin/Paulsen, February 2025

A powerful story perfect for opening up conversations about loss.

What does it feel like to lose someone you love? For one little boy, it's like he has a hole in his life. It's in the bottom bunk, where his little brother, Matty, used to sleep, and it's on his brother's chair at dinner. It follows him everywhere until the day he decides to really explore it.

Inside the hole he confronts his grief—the sadness, the anger, and the truth of how much he misses Matty. His friend is waiting when he climbs out, and when she asks, "Do you want to tell me about your brother?" he's surprised to find that talking about Matty is a comfort—and helps fill his hole with good memories.

Half Note doesn't feel whole. With two beats, she isn't as big and beautiful as Whole Note, or as quick and upbeat as Quarter Note. She worries she'll never measure up! So when the other members of the musical staff are at rest, she picks up like a fast tempo and leaves.

But Composer and the staff can't play anything noteworthy without Half Note. Their only hope is to convince Half Note to change her tune and come back.

This hilarious, offbeat tale of sheet music in treble will strike a chord with anyone who's felt out of sync, ringing with reassurance that everyone has a part to play when working as a team. At the coda, readers can develop their ear with a glossary of musical terms included.

Deep in the Caribbean Sea lived a tiny, timid whale named Will.

Will wants nothing more than a friend. But she is so teeny-tiny that no one ever seems to notice her. She is ignored at finball practice, never chosen to play in the orca-stra, and always forgotten in a game of shell-and-seek. After plucking up all her courage, she sets out to find a friend. But when she finally finds the friends she's been dreaming of, who will stick up for them?

Through enchanting, under-the-sea illustrations, Will and Krill tells a tale for shy and quiet kids, encouraging them to find where they belong--and use their voice when it really matters.

A uniquely humorous approach to sadness, this picture book helps kids understand this big, heavy feeling while encouraging mindfulness and exploring what it means to be a good friend.

Rabbit is SO excited to go fishing with Bear. But Bear's not feeling up to it. . . . He's feeling low, like his pocket is full of sads that are weighing him down. Although Bear doesn't know why he's feeling this way, Rabbit is sure she can fix it!

Rabbit makes Bear try meditating, healthy eating, even a new hobby, only to learn that when it comes to having the sads, there's no easy fix—except, maybe, friendship.

This tender picture book is the perfect primer to help children understand the heavy-hearted sadness that can come out of nowhere. It helps kids and adults be better listeners and more supportive companions to friends dealing with tough feelings.

I Like Your Face
By Brad Davidson, Illustrated By Rachel Más Davidson
Kids Can Press, Summer 2025

A young boy shares what it feels like to have a best friend by telling his friend how much he likes his face and all the reasons why. His friend's face is so special he could spot it anywhere, even in a crowd of a million-gazillion people. He knows all the faces his friend makes, like his "Silly Face" and his "Holding-in-a-Fart Face." And his friend knows all his faces, too, like his "I'm-There-For-You Face." Because when you have a best friend, you're never alone.

Brad Davidson's charming text pairs beautifully with Rachel Más Davidson's funny, heartwarming illustrations to create a lively picture book that celebrates the joys of true friendship. With different emotions represented on every page, the book is a wonderful tool for social-emotional learning and for helping children recognize facial expressions – a key stage of early childhood development.

By Nancy Garden, Illustrated by Sharon Wooding
Farrar, Straus, & Giroux, 2004

In kindergarten, Molly draws her family: Mommy, Mama Lu, and her puppy. But her classmate Tommy tells her that's not a family. "You can't have a mommy and a mama," he says. Molly doesn't know what to think; she isn't sure she wants her picture to be on the wall for Open School Night. Molly's dilemma, sensitively explored in words and art, shows readers that even if a family is different from others, it can still be happy, loving, and real.

"Insightful...[by] referring to diverse families and picturing a multicultural classroom, Garden and Wooding suggest that these conversations can take place just about anywhere, in any small town or big city." —Publishers Weekly

I Want To Be BIG!

By Tiffany Golden

Illustrated by Sawyer Cloud

The sky's the limit in this larger-than-life tale about how sometimes what we wish for isn't exactly what we want, and how, with a little creativity and help, we can learn to love ourselves for who we are right now.

Jaiceon wishes he was big—bigger than his whole family, bigger than everyone! If he were big, he could reach the cookies on the counter, or make his own sandwich. He could stay up really late, swim with sharks, and even be best friends with Bigfoot! Nobody's your boss when you're big.

When Jaiceon's wish is granted, rules shrink away, and he dives into a world of enormous fun. But as he grows, the situation grows out of control along with him, and Jaiceon starts to wonder if being small wasn't so bad after all.

The picture book debut from Lee and Low's 2021 New Visions Award Winner!

☞ "This is a fun read-aloud showing a loving and supportive family and the value of not wishing away the present." —School Library Journal

☞ "A strong choice for reading aloud... The longing to be bigger and more independent is a common desire of young children and will likely resonate with many kids and their caregivers." —Kirkus

Wash Day

By Tiffany Golden

Illustrated by Lhaiza Morena

Mayo Clinic Press, 2023

A celebration of Black hair and sisterhood.

Meet Jelaya (jeh-LAY-uh.) She hates wash day.

The tugs! The scrubs! The pinching and pulling! Jelaya can't think of a worse way to spend the day. That is, until her big sister Jasmine explains that this wash day will be different. Jelaya is going to wash Jasmine's hair instead!

Wash Day is a sweet and honest exploration of the beauty and tradition of wash days. Offering gentle guidance and framing the all-day affair as an act of self-care, this picture book also serves as an avenue to demystify and educate others on natural haircare routines, which are often misunderstood and stigmatized.

"Wash Day has more to it than humor... Tiffany Golden's story is sweet, and educates people." —Cannonball Books

Braid Day

By Tiffany Golden, Illustrated by Bea Rollins
Penguin Random House/Flamingo, 2027

King and his sister Queen, two Black children, are so excited to get their hair braided for the first time! But when they're sent home from school, told their braids aren't allowed, the siblings—and their family and friends—must stand up for their rights. With planned back matter about the CROWN Act, this triumphant picture book celebrates Black hair and Black family love, similarly to HAIR LOVE by Mathew A. Cherry, and carries a strong justice thread similarly to DON'T TOUCH MY HAIR by Sharee Miller.

A Creature Was Stirring

By Heather S. Pierczynski

Illustrated by Skylar Hogan

HarperCollins, September 2023

'Twas the night before Christmas,
when all through the house,
not a creature was stirring, not even a—
MOUSE!
He had never heard of a mouse not stirring.
It was the most glorious night of the year!
So he stirred. Squeaked! Eeked!
Anything but sleep.

In this irresistible spin on a timeless holiday tale, debut author Heather Pierczynski and artist Skylar Hogan's reveal why only a mouse is singled out within The Night Before Christmas. A perfect stocking stuffer and cozy read by the fireplace to induce plenty of giggles and laughter.

Poe and Lars

By Keshelle Gourley

Illustrated by Skylar Hogan

Little Bee, 2021

Lonely Poe and hangry Lars strike a deal in this humorous picture book about unlikely friendship!

Poe is a resourceful and creative girl living in snowy Russia. Although she enjoys her life, Poe longs for company. But everything changes one day when Lars, a grumpy and hungry polar bear who is quite the poor hunter, crashes into her home, destroying it. Poe offers to bring him food and, in exchange, Lars must repair her home.

Will Lars deliver his end of the bargain, or does he see something else on the menu? This hilarious book features brilliant illustrations and educational backmatter on climate change and melting polar ice caps.

"Like a sunset streaked across fresh snow, the colors of this story are as cozy as its message of taking care of others—and the planet." —Foreward

Brave Volodymyr

By Linda Elovitz Marshall

Illustrated by Grasya Oliyko

HarperCollins/Quill Tree, September 2023

From acclaimed author Linda Elovitz Marshall comes a picture book biography of Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky that highlights the importance of standing up for what one believes in, defending freedom at all costs, and maintaining hope in the face of war's atrocities—with stunning art from Ukrainian illustrator Grasya Oliyko.

Please contact
HarperCollins

Volodymyr Zelensky wanted to make Ukraine a better, kinder, more joyful place. Born to Jewish parents, Volodymyr had much love and pride for his country. Growing up, even with Ukraine's various conflicts, he liked to make people laugh. After university, he became a comedian and actor. But he knew humor wasn't enough to fix his nation's ongoing problems. So, in 2019, he ran for president—and won!

Leading with honesty, heart, and humor, President Zelensky stood up for what he believed in, no matter how tough the situation. And when Ukraine was invaded, he bravely defended his country, the Ukrainian people, and their right to freedom at all costs.

Featuring an author's note, educational timeline, and more, this powerful nonfiction account beautifully captures President Volodymyr Zelensky's journey to office and Ukraine's fight for truth and independence amidst rising tensions.

"Bright hopefulness." —Publishers Weekly

The Polio Pioneer

By Linda Elovitz Marshall

Illustrated by Lisa Anchin

Random House/Knopf, 2020

Learn about the importance of vaccines and the scientific process through the fascinating life of world-renowned scientist Jonas Salk, whose pioneering discoveries changed the world forever.

Dr. Jonas Salk is one of the most celebrated doctors and medical researchers of the 20th century. The child of immigrants who never learned to speak English, Jonas was struck by the devastation he saw when the soldiers returned from battle after WWII. Determined to help, he worked to become a doctor and eventually joined the team that created the influenza vaccine. But Jonas wanted to do more. As polio ravaged the United States--even the president was not immune!--Jonas decided to lead the fight against this terrible disease. In 1952, Dr. Jonas Salk invented the polio vaccine, which nearly eliminated polio from this country. For the rest of his life, Dr. Salk continued to do groundbreaking medical research at the Salk Institute, leaving behind a legacy that continues to make the world a better place every day.

This compelling picture book biography sheds light on Dr. Salk's groundbreaking journey and the importance of vaccination.

Ghouldilocks And The Three Ghosts

By Annie Sullivan

Illustrated by Paula J. Becker

PRH/Random House Studio, Fall 2025

A classic fairy tale is turned on its head when a creepy ghoul and three not-so-scary ghosts replace familiar characters in this humorous Halloween story!

Ghouldilocks and the Three Ghosts is the Halloween version of a classic fairy tale. This Ghouldilocks has the same golden curls as the original, styled with bones and tangles to suit this scary holiday!

Ghouldilocks enters a haunted mansion. There she samples three bowls of ghoulosh, sits on a big chair, a medium chair, and a small chair. Next she tries out three beds--and falls asleep in the smallest one. The ghosts come home and instead of chasing Ghouldilocks away, they all become friends.

The pages are sprinkled with speech balloons filled with silly Halloween jokes and puns. Colorful, cartoon-style art includes sly details to make readers laugh-out-loud. This clever retelling of the classic Goldilocks and the Three Bears is perfect for Halloween.

"Fun and clever, this book is....an enjoyable story to read aloud as Halloween approaches." —School Library Journal

The Weather's Bet

Art By Caldecott Medalist Ed Young

Written by Stephen Cowan

Philomel/Penguin, 2020

From Caldecott Medalist Ed Young comes a powerful retelling of Aesop's classic fable "The Wind and the Sun."

Once upon the sky, there were three powers—the Wind, the Rain, and the Sun—each claiming to be the mightier than the others. One day, the powers came upon a shepherd girl fast asleep upon a hill, so they made a bet to see who could make her take her cap off. Who will be the strongest of them all?

Rendered in exquisite mixed-media collage, Caldecott Medalist Ed Young's gorgeous and deeply poignant retelling of the well-known Aesop's fable The Wind and the Sun, proves that sometimes gentle persuasion and kindness are the best virtues of all.

 "Awe-inspiring artwork as powerful as any force of nature." —Kirkus Starred Review

The House Baba Built

By Ed Young

Little, Brown, 2011

Three Starred Reviews!

In Ed Young's childhood home in Shanghai, all was not as it seemed. The house his father built transformed as needed into a place to play hide-and-seek, to eat bamboo shoots, and to be safe.

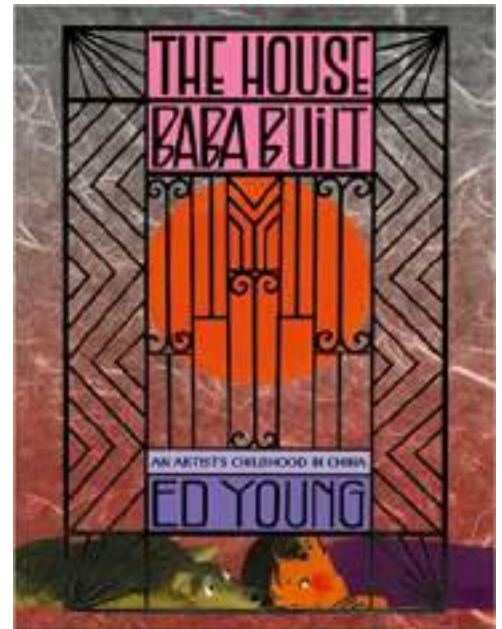

For outside the home's walls, China was at war. Soon the house held not only Ed and his four siblings but friends, relatives, and strangers who became family. Ed watched as planes flew overhead and friends joined the Chinese air force. But through it all, Ed's childhood remained full of joy and imagination.

"Young brings his exquisite sense of design, expressive brushwork, and mastery of a variety of mediums to the story of his childhood in China."
