TECHNOSEXUAL

SEEKING AUTHENTIC INTIMACY IN THE AGE OF ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE

Certified sexologist with degrees in clinical, organizational, and spiritual psychology Kaamna Bhojwani's examination of intimacy in the age of AI that explores the rise of digisexuality, the psychology of AI companions, the future of marriage and monogamy, AI matchmaking, the new gender wars, pornography and sex work, and the ethical frameworks that will guide the next decade, with a blueprint for using technology in prosocial, grounded, and self-aware ways.

We are on the brink of a profound shift in human intimacy. For the first time in history, technology is not simply facilitating relationships. It is becoming the relationship. Teenagers are forming addictive attachments to AI companions. Adults are seeking emotional support, romantic connection, and sexual exploration with digital partners. Robots with humanlike presence are entering homes. VR pornography is outperforming all other segments of the sex-tech market. As AI moves from productivity tool to confidant, mentor, lover, and therapist, the question becomes: What happens to us?

Kaamna argues that the crisis is not merely technological. It is psychological, relational, and spiritual. We bring our long-standing sexual shame, emotional wounds, and loneliness into these systems, and the technology amplifies whatever is unresolved. Her central claim is that AI companions and sexual technologies do not create disconnection. They reveal it. To remain human in the next decade, she believes we must understand our desires, strengthen our internal resources, and cultivate what she calls spiritual accountability.

THE AUTHOR

Kaamna Bhojwani holds degrees in clinical psychology from Smith College, organizational psychology from University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, and a master's degree in spiritual psychology from Columbia University. She is a certified sexologist whose work has been featured by Reuters, NBC, Business Insider, NPR affiliates. Her Psychology Today column introduces lay readers to the evolving world of AI intimacy, and her podcast, Sex, Tech and Spirituality, explores everything from sexless marriages to humanoid robots. She has a devoted Instagram following of over 100,000, and a track record of translating complex science into accessible, unflinching narrative. In 2026 she will be speaking at Duke's AI and Society conference, along with events across San Francisco, LA, London, Singapore, and Mumbai.

TRAVELS WITH RUFOUS

ACROSS THE CONTINENT WITH A FEISTY HUMMINGBIRD

Join a tiny, resilient traveler on a 4,000-mile journey from Mexico to the Alaskan wilderness and back again, as a dedicated birder reveals the mystery, science, and peril of its remarkable migration.

The rufous hummingbird is a tiny bird with a huge personality. A feisty scrap of orange feathers weighing not much more than a penny, it undertakes an epic migration each year. In TRAVELS WITH RUFOUS, one besotted birder traces this astonishing journey across deserts, oceans, and borders to discover the mysteries of these migratory superstars—and what their future holds in a rapidly changing world.

As a young bird-banding intern in Yosemite, Janie Chodosh met her first rufous hummingbird when she rescued the tiny creature from a mist net in a high meadow. That iridescent miracle of life, heart hammering in her hand, ignited a lifelong obsession. Decades later, alarmed by the rufous's decline, she decides to follow the bird's migration to better understand its remarkable abilities and the mounting challenges it faces from habitat loss and climate change. From Southern California's deserts and canyons to the coastal rainforests of the Pacific Northwest, from Alaska's breeding grounds to winter refuges in Mexico—and even to an unexpected outpost in Pensacola, Florida—Chodosh follows the rufous through every stage of its year.

TRAVELS WITH RUFOUS asks a deceptively simple question: What happens when you devote a year not to seeing the most species, but to knowing one species deeply? The answer is an endearing, thought-provoking exploration of what it means to share a changing planet with a creature that can outfly a fighter jet in miniature—and still rest, weightless, in the palm of your hand.

THE AUTHOR

Janie Chodosh is an environmental educator, writer, birder, and naturalist. She is a professor of ecology and environmental science at Santa Fe Community College and the education specialist for Wild Friends, a wildlife conservation program at the University of New Mexico Institute for Public Law. She has published four previous books, including Wild Lives: Leading Conservationists on the Animals and the Planet They Love and The Elephant Doctor of India. She lives in Santa Fe.

HOW TO SPOT A LIAR IN 7 SECONDS OR LESS

PROTECT YOURSELF FROM CRIMINALS, CONS, PREDATORS, AND MORE

An essential guide on deception detection from renowned trial consultant, behavioral analyst, and body language expert.

Having consulted on some of the most high-profile cases of the last two decades—including Michael Jackson and Jeffrey Epstein—Susan Constantine has met her fair share of scammers, con artists, predators, and murderers. She realized the need for attorneys to become more proficient in spotting lies in the courtroom, as well as vetting clients and witnesses. She started teaching her methods for spotting a liar—and has been doing so for over twenty years.

Susan now shares lessons from her course with the general public for the first time, showing readers how to not just spot liars, but how to outsmart them. Using her proven techniques, readers learn how to discern the incongruence between a person's facial expressions, body language, spoken or written words, and demeanor, heightening their awareness to key signs of deception—and all within just seven seconds. She empowers readers to take control over the social settings they find themselves in, and protect themselves and their loved ones from harm.

"Now, Susan Constantine, in her breakthrough book, HOW TO SPOT A LIAR IN 7 SECONDS OR LESS, takes us inside the minds of sociopaths and serial liars... and teaches us exactly how to spot them! Protect yourselves! This is a must read!"

—Chris Hansen, Host of TO CATCH A PREDATOR on Dateline NBC

THE AUTHOR

Susan Constantine is a leading authority on body language, having appeared on more than 1,500 TV programs and publications, as well as radio and podcast programs such as CNN, Dateline, Inside Edition, The Today Show, Good Morning America, World Japan News, The History Channel, and CrimeCon. She runs the Human Behavior Academy, which offers courses in over 30 states for continuing legal education. Over the last 15 years, she has trained the Department of Defense offices, State Attorney's offices, judicial associations, mediation and arbitration associations, international law enforcement, intelligence agencies, law schools, universities, and State Bar Associations across the United States. Susan has an incredible platform of her own with an engaged email list of 350K fans, a robust speaking schedule, and a television series in the works.

SCIENCE / COOKBOOK

JUST ADD WATER

THE ART AND SCIENCE OF COOKING TO SLOW AGING

Discover the transformative power of water-based cooking and unlock your healthiest, most vibrant self yet.

A groundbreaking new approach to health, longevity, and delicious cooking—the debut science cookbook from nutrition scientist, registered dietitian, and beloved Instagram voice Dr. Michelle Davenport (@drmichelledavenport).

The latest discoveries in longevity research are all coalescing around one finding: water-based cooking is the most powerful way to improve (and even reverse) age-related diseases and restore long-term health. The evidence-based secret lies in cooking with water to minimize Advanced Glycation End Products (AGEs), the harmful compounds formed by dry, high-heat cooking. AGEs trigger inflammation, insulin resistance, collagen breakdown, and accelerate cellular and total body aging.

Water-based cooking, an age-old culinary method now scientifically proven to profoundly improve health, has been largely forgotten in the modern kitchen. In this revolutionary cookbook featuring 90 flavorful, beautifully photographed recipes inspired by Asian and global cuisines, Dr. Davenport combines cutting-edge, peer-reviewed nutrition research with timeless culinary traditions passed down through generations—from her 96-year-old grandmother, to her mother, and now to her. She finds inspiration from many childhood broth-filled favorites like Pho Ga, an aromatic chicken noodle soup; her viral recipe for Zheng Dan, a silky three-ingredient steamed egg custard; and a fennel-saffron poached halibut found in variations around the world.

THE AUTHOR

Dr. Michelle Davenport is a nutrition scientist and registered dietitian. She holds a PhD in Nutrition from New York University and clinically trained as a dietitian at the internationally acclaimed University of California, San Francisco. She is dedicated to translating cutting-edge nutrition science into practical tips for living longer, healthier lives. Dr. Michelle is the founder of the popular Instagram account @DrMichelleDavenport, where she teaches over 350,000 people how to slow age through water-based cooking. She lives in the San Francisco Bay Area.

THE HABIT TRAP

HOW OUR ROUTINES HOLD US BACK

A dogma-challenging book that reveals the ways our routines can limit us, why the pursuit of “optimal” holds us back, and how we can free ourselves to live richer and more fulfilling lives.

We are living in what some call, “the Age of Self-Optimization.” Common wisdom holds that to unlock our best selves, we must develop strong habits. Health and productivity podcasters celebrate the importance of crafting the right routines while tech billionaires, celebrities, and influencers all seem to wake up at five a.m. for their morning rituals.

In The Habit Trap, award-winning journalist Markham Heid pushes against the current religion of productivity in a counterintuitive and refreshing way. He offers a positive message that teaches you how to free yourself from the oppressive rigidity of self-optimization and relearn to trust your instincts. Breaking away from our routines, he argues, can help us maintain awareness and support our inherent ability to respond to changing circumstances.

This is a book about attention, and more importantly about intention. It's about our brains and how they engage with the world.

Challenge the Cult of Optimization
Break Free from the Habit Trap
Rethink Habits and Personal Growth
Boost Creativity and Natural Mindfulness
Build a More Fulfilling Life

“I’ve been waiting for someone to write this book, and Markham Heid is the ideal author to do it... The Habit Trap is the counterpoint to optimization obsession that the world desperately needs.”

—Adam Grant, #1 NYT bestselling author of Think Again

THE AUTHOR

Markham Heid is an award-winning health and science journalist. He’s a regular contributor at Time magazine and The New York Times, and he’s followed by more than 360k readers on Medium. A former staff writer for Men’s Health magazine, Heid later spent four years writing a weekly health column for Time. His work has appeared in Vice, the Financial Times, NBC News, Fox News, The New York Times, Popular Mechanics, Travel & Leisure, Men’s Journal, Playboy, Sports Illustrated, and many other national outlets. A native of Michigan, Heid currently lives in southwest Germany.

ALIGNED

THE DATA-DRIVEN GUIDE TO PERFORMANCE, RECOVERY, AND HUMAN POTENTIAL

We often equate peak performance with relentless effort—early mornings, intense workouts, and unwavering discipline. But what if the true catalyst for excellence lies not in exertion, but in restoration?

Pulling from one of the world's largest physiological datasets and more than two decades of experience operating in high-stakes, high-stress environments, Holmes makes a compelling case: your downtime is your competitive advantage.

Holmes challenges conventional wisdom by revealing that recovery is not a luxury—it's a necessity. She demonstrates that aligning with our body's natural rhythms is the key to unlocking sustained vitality and presence, and bridges the gap between cutting-edge science and practical application. You'll discover how to: align with your biological rhythms, decode the science of recovery, shape your emotional resilience.

Whether you're an elite athlete, a corporate leader, or someone seeking deeper meaning in your life, ALIGNED serves as a field guide to living at full capacity, in tune with both body and mind.

"Dr. Holmes shows how recovery and emotional resilience improve when we work with the body's natural circadian rhythms, rather than against them. The result is a book that feels both rigorous and genuinely useful."—Michael J. Breus, PhD, ABSM, author of The Power of When

"Holmes guides each of us to listen more deeply, to our bodies, our rhythms, and, most importantly, our values, and to live from that place of awareness. This book is, refreshingly, not about optimization or achievement, it's about wholeness."—David Perlmutter, MD, New York Times bestselling author of Grain Brain and Brain Defenders

Kristen Holmes is a psychophysiologicalist and the Global Head of Human Performance at WHOOP, where she drives thought leadership by engaging with industry-leading researchers and partners to better understand individual and team biometric and performance data across high-stakes verticals. Kristen was a collegiate athlete and is one of the most successful coaches in Ivy League history. She is a Ph.D. candidate in Psychology at the University of Queensland and holds a B.A. in Political Science from the U. of Iowa.

DEATH IS A DOORWAY

THE AFTERLIFE, EXPLAINED

Psychic medium and spiritual educator Malaurie Hotier's guide to the afterlife, blending personal encounters with souls on the other side and insights into what death can teach us about life.

In a space often dominated by the ethereal and abstract, Malaurie's (@malauriepsychic) voice is refreshing: real, rational, and compassionate.

With over 307,000 followers across platforms, a thriving paid membership community, and a 5-year waitlist for her readings, Malaurie has become a trusted voice for people navigating grief, seeking clarity, and wondering what comes next. Her debut book is a grounded, practical guide to what happens when we die, drawing from both her intuitive experiences as a medium and her reverence for science.

This is a book for the millions of people grieving each year, and the even larger number who fear death or feel disconnected from the idea of something greater. Malaurie meets them where they are—and then gently expands what they think is possible.

THE AUTHOR

Malaurie Hotier is a psychic and medium dedicated to providing a down-to-earth approach to the spiritual world. Malaurie is unique among intuitives because she believes in both the power of conventional science (including vaccines) and social justice while also embracing more spiritual concepts like reincarnation, ghosts, and signs from the universe. In addition to offering 1:1 sessions (which are fully booked with an extensive waitlist), Malaurie hosts retreats, sells guided meditations on her website and recently launched The Club, an online membership community that hosts live events, workshops, Q&A sessions, and group readings for over 250 members.

MONSTER OF A LAND

ON THE ROAD IN SEARCH OF MODERN AMERICA

From New York Times bestselling author comes an update of John Steinbeck's trip in Travels with Charley, a cross-country journey exploring modern America with Hough's signature observational wit, searing social commentary, and perspective as someone who knows what it's like to truly exist on the margins in this country. Part travelogue, part social commentary, and 100% Lauren Hough, MONSTER unites her poignant vulnerability, her hilarious narrative voice, and her razor-sharp insights into a journey that will show us how far we've come as a country, and how far we still have to go.

Her influences feel obvious—but Lauren Hough isn't John Steinbeck—unless the Noble Prize-winning author of The Grapes of Wrath had a secret past as a six-foot-tall lesbian and Air Force vet. But even better as a social lubricant than beer, a dog is the ultimate conversation starter. Lauren chats—at gas stations and restaurants and auto shops and bars—with an incredible cross-section of Americans from all walks of life and every possible political perspective. And as she circumnavigates the country, she documents, with all-too-rare empathy, what it means to be poor, to be marginalized, and to be seen as Other.

PRAISE

"Lauren Hough writes about America the way it deserves to be written about—honestly, and with a tinge of heartbreak."—Jennette McCurdy, #1 NYT bestselling author, I'm Glad My Mom Died

"Monster of a Land is a brilliant hand-whittled portrait of America. Full of hardship but also, incredibly, of hope and empathy. And funny as all get-out! It contains such wisdom about our country and about ourselves. Get it into your hands."

—Andrew Sean Greer, Pulitzer Prize-winning author of Less

THE AUTHOR

Lauren Hough was born in Germany and raised in seven countries, and West Texas. She's been an Air Force airman, a bartender, a bouncer, a construction laborer, a driver, a green-aproned barista, and a cable guy. She's the author of the New York Times bestselling essay collection, LEAVING ISN'T THE HARDEST THING (Vintage, 2021). Her work has appeared in The New York Times, Granta, Texas Highways, Huffpost, and The Guardian. She's a writer at large for Texas Highways. She lives in Austin with a dog named Woody Guthrie.

SELF-HELP / PSYCHOLOGY

REPARING THE INNER CHILD

THE NEW SCIENCE OF OUR OLDEST WOUNDS, AND HOW TO HEAL THEM

NYT Bestseller!

From the #1 New York Times bestselling author of HOW TO DO THE WORK comes a groundbreaking guide to healing our childhood wounds and rediscovering our full potential.

As adults, we often fall into patterns that feel irrational or out of character—shutting down, lashing out, people-pleasing, or self-sabotaging. Beneath those reactions lies our inner child, a younger part of us still trying to get its needs met the only way it knows how.

We all carry the imprint of our earliest years. Childhood is brief, yet its impact is lifelong. Some parts of us were met with love while other parts were met with silence, criticism, or disapproval. To survive, we learned to adapt—learning to over perform, to hide, or stay small.

Reparenting the Inner Child offers a clear, compassionate path to self-integration, combining practical exercises, somatic tools, and guided reflections to help us create the safety, love, and boundaries we've always needed. Through her holistic framework that models individual development, Dr. LePera explains how we can cultivate the emotional maturity and regulation to respond calmly instead of reacting, to embrace desire instead of shame, and to question the stories we've long believed about who we have to be.

PRAISE

"If you're ready to stop repeating the past and finally start building the future you deserve, you need to read this book."

—Mel Robbins, New York Times bestselling author of The Let Them Theory and host of The Mel Robbins Podcast

"Nicole LePera is the voice of a generation."

THAW

UNFREEZE MIDDLE MANAGEMENT TO UNLOCK STRATEGY, INNOVATION, AND GROWTH

A guide to organizational transformation targeting the “frozen middle” of corporations—and offering strategies to overcome bureaucratic setbacks that hinder innovation, profit, and fulfillment.

Initiatives are stalling out, strategic plans are fizzling, and even the most promising innovations get buried under bureaucracy. Worse still, profit and employee satisfaction are trending lower. Sound familiar? This is the impact of the “frozen middle”—the critical layer of management caught between high-level leadership’s vision and frontline employees’ execution. That corporate paralysis traps passionate managers in inertia and stymies senior leadership.

As experts in organizational transformation, Leppert and Wasserman’s consulting firm, Empactful Advisors, has led major organizations—including Chevron, Merck, and the Department of Defense—to generate more than $5 billion in cost savings and revenue growth. The key to their success comes from aligning senior leadership and middle management, using empathy and practical frameworks to illuminate the blocks that both sides face, and showing how they can shift from utter disconnect to collaborative goal setting that helps all parties hit their targets.

Sharp, confident, and timely, THAW is poised to be the definitive book on ending organizational paralysis and unlocking true potential.

PRAISE

“This book is a practical, battle-tested playbook for unlocking human potential and accelerating change.”

—Daniel Dworkin, Organizational Development Leader, Google

“Thaw brilliantly addresses that challenge by revealing how the ‘frozen middle’ of corporations can limit performance and how leaders can unlock its tremendous potential.”

—Joseph Impicicche, Former President & CEO, Ascension

THE AUTHORS

Jimmy Leppert and Justin Wasserman bring unparalleled expertise to the subject. Before founding Empactful Advisors, they were both Managing Directors at Kotter International, working directly with leadership legend John Kotter (Leading Change). Their work spans industries—from healthcare to energy to consumer goods—and they have deep networks across top executives, ensuring THAW will land in the hands of key business decision-makers.

UNWOUND

RELEASE THE FASCIA AND UNLOCK YOUR BODY'S SELF-HEALING CODE

Co-founder of Human Garage and one of the leading voices in the rapidly expanding global fascia and self-care movement, Garry's work sits at the intersection of health, performance, and self-healing—and his platform is extraordinary.

Beyond having a vast celebrity following, Human Garage content reaches audiences in over 180 countries, with an email list of 230,000, more than 300 million social impressions, and 60 million monthly video downloads.

The core idea is simple: we are not broken, we are wound up—and when the body unwinds, it has the ability to heal itself. Within minutes, people feel a measurable shift in their bodies: breathing opens, stress drops, energy increases.

UNWOUND translates this work into a clear, accessible framework for a broad audience, including a 28-DAY LIFE RESET. After spending millions searching for relief from chronic pain, Gary discovered a practical, scalable system that reduces reliance on medication, practitioners, and external solutions. At a time when healthcare systems are strained and self-care is becoming essential, this book meets a global need with a message that is urgent and empowering.

Core Promises: Improved sleep, Decreased stress, Better sexual function, Enhanced digestion, Increased energy levels, Pain reduction and relief, Improved memory – AND MORE!

THE AUTHOR

Garry Lineham is the co-founder of Human Garage, a platform that has helped popularize “fascial maneuvers”—a system designed to help people release tension in the body and restore its natural ability to heal. Garry was a professional body-builder, serial entrepreneur, and chronic-pain sufferer. After studying with Dr. David Rubenstein, founder of the Rubenstein Method—a non-invasive physical therapy and stress-reduction technique Gary combined his own systems-thinking background to create the Fascial Maneuvers™, the foundational practice at the heart of Human Garage's approach.

So far in 2026, Human Garage content has generated over 2 billion views across social media platforms and mainstream media worldwide. In 2024 alone, the Transforming Trauma World Tour traveled to thirteen countries and hosted twenty-one events, drawing thousands of participants at each stop.

Dolph Lundgren

CELEBRITY MEMOIR

FIGHTS WORTH FIGHTING

FINDING STRENGTH IN STRUGGLE

Best known for his role as Ivan Drago in Rocky IV, Dolph Lundgren skyrocketed to fame in the 1980s and has since built a remarkable career spanning over a hundred films—including producing, writing, and directing multiple projects. But beyond the on-screen battles lies a far more compelling story: the real-life fights Lundgren has faced behind the scenes.

In this deeply personal account, Lundgren opens up about his upbringing in Sweden, his rise from a chemical engineering student to a martial arts champion, and his eventual transformation into an international movie star. He explores the pressures of fame, the emotional and physical toll of life in a cutthroat industry, and his private struggles. Now, as he faces his most difficult challenge yet—a fight against cancer—Lundgren reflects on the cost of survival and what it truly means to keep going.

PRAISE

"He has bravely and quietly gone through a ruthless battle to show the world how strong he is."

—Jean-Claude Van Damme, actor and martial artist

"He's a genius. Chemical engineer, MIT, Fulbright scholar. I hated him."

—Sylvester Stallone, actor, screenwriter, and director

"That's an extraordinary career. That's an extraordinary immigrant story."

—Arnold Schwarzenegger, actor, bodybuilder, and former governor of California

THE AUTHOR

Dolph Lundgren earned a master's degree in chemical engineering, becoming a Fulbright scholar, military officer, and international black belt karate champion before switching tracks and entering the world of Hollywood as an action hero. His breakthrough came in Rocky IV (1985) when he played the formidable Soviet boxer Ivan Drago opposite Sylvester Stallone, with whom he reunited onscreen in the blockbusters The Expendables and The Expendables 2.

In 2026 & 2027, Lundgren will travel extensively in Europe to promote his signature vodka line, Hard Cut Vodka, and an upcoming documentary: History's Greatest Machines with Dolph Lundgren, broadcasting across international platforms like Sky HISTORY in Europe. The show explores the engineering, innovation, and historical impact of powerful machinery, military tech, and espionage gear.

HOW TO HOLD A COCKROACH

A BOOK FOR THOSE WHO ARE FREE AND DON'T KNOW IT

A fully illustrated, inspirational tale about discovering and freeing ourselves from the beliefs that cause us to suffer. With a message both surprising and simple, it is a love letter to humankind, a book for those who are free and don't know it. Originally self-published in 2020, earlier editions sold over 170,000 copies (including 100,000+ in audio). Penguin Life's edition includes a new foreword, additional illustrations, and a beautiful cover and package with embellishments.

In this story for all ages, a struggling boy begins a life-changing journey when a disgusting guest disturbs his dinner. Continuing to encounter sources of suffering, the boy must investigate fundamental truths he has believed about himself, love, and life. He confronts some of life's most persistent questions:

- What am I?
- What causes me to suffer?
- How can I be at peace with the traumas of the past and the uncertainty of the future?
- What determines how I experience life?

SPIRITUALITY

THE BEAUTIFUL LOGIC OF A MEANINGFUL LIFE

UNCOVERING THE WONDER OF YOUR STORY

From one of our leading progressive spiritual thinkers and bestselling author of 15 books, an inspiring call to make meaning of our one precious life...

"I want my life to be meaningful." If those words stir or spark something in you, this the book you have been waiting for.

For over a century, religious leaders and secular philosophers alike have lamented the "disenchantment of the world," the sense that the world has lost its magic and meaning. Old religious and philosophical systems that once gave meaning to millions have alienated emerging generations. More and more of us feel that our lives are busy but empty, that we are skimming the surface but incapable of accessing life's deeper dimensions. Many seek to fill this chronic meaning deficit with technological amusement, authoritarian politics, fundamentalist religion, or mindless consumerism.

McLaren has been engaging with the meaning crisis for decades. Here, he helps you explore the sources of meaning hidden deep in your own daily experiences.

THE AUTHOR

Brian D. McLaren is a former English professor and former pastor for twenty-four years. Now he's an author, activist, public theologian, and frequent guest lecturer. His work has been covered in TIME Magazine, Newsweek, USA Today, The New York Times, Washington Post, and CNN. The author of more than 15 books, including Faith After Doubt, Do I Stay Christian? and A New Kind of Christian, he is a faculty member at the Center for Action and Contemplation.

HISTORY

1942: CRUX OF WAR

An engrossing and encyclopedic narrative of the year in which the outcome of World War Two hung in the balance

The year opened with the Axis powers inflicting a series of disasters on the newly formed Allies: Pearl Harbor, followed by Japan's conquest of the Philippines and Southeast Asia; Rommel running unchecked in North Africa; German U-boats transforming the East Coast of the United States into a shooting gallery; the failure of Britain's strategic bombing campaign; and devastating defeats of the Red Army at Kharkov, Crimea, and southern Russia. By the summer of 1942, many of these theatres offered a grim global calculus. Any notion of decisive victory seemed far-fetched.

Yet by the end of 1942 there had been a sea-change. Within just one 40-day timespan, the British had triumphed over Rommel at Alamein; British and American forces landed in North Africa to confront the Axis position there; the Americans won two naval battles at Guadalcanal, sealing the fate of that campaign and with it Japanese expansionism; the Red Army launched a massive counter-offensive at Stalingrad that would condemn six Axis armies-and hundreds of thousands of German, Italian, Romanian and Hungarian soldiers-to eventual destruction. The war, in short, had turned.

Parshall's epic 1942: CRUX OF WAR offers a sweeping new narrative and visual history. Containing more than 150 maps and timelines, it looks at the year from all sides and from every front, revealing how military reform, economic mobilization, inspired improvisation, and growing professionalism coalesced quickly and decisively, paving the way toward final Allied victory. Parshall's book examines and illuminates World War II's most crucial and consequential year: its crux.

THE AUTHOR

Jonathan Parshall is co-author of the bestselling Shattered Sword: The Untold Story of the Battle of Midway. His work has been published in the U.S. Naval War College Review, U.S. Naval Institute Proceedings, Naval History magazine, WWII magazine, Wartime (the journal of the Australian War Memorial), and others. He is a lecturer for the U.S. Naval War College, a frequent speaker at museums, a featured historian on numerous World War Two tours, and has appeared on the Discovery Channel, National Geographic, History Channel, Smithsonian, the BBC, and Netflix.

RECONCILE

A PATH FORWARD FOR FAMILIES WHO WANT THE RELATIONSHIP AND ARE WILLING TO DO THE WORK

In RECONCILE, national bestselling author Vienna Pharaon answers one of the most painful and persistent questions a person can face: Can this family relationship be repaired—and if so, how? Drawing on nearly twenty years of clinical experience, Vienna offers a clear, compassionate, and practical framework for navigating challenging family relationships—helping readers grapple with the exhausting question of “Should I keep trying?” while moving them toward an understanding of what is truly possible, whether that path leads forward together or apart.

Family estrangement has become increasingly visible in our culture, but most of the advice remains polarized: forgive and stay, or cut ties and move on. Vienna offers something more nuanced and useful. With the warmth, accessibility, and emotional intelligence that made THE ORIGINS OF YOU a bestseller, she speaks not only to the adult child, but also to the parent, the sibling, and the family member on the other side of the rupture. Her gift is her ability to hold the full relational picture with compassion, while still guiding readers toward the difficult truths, accountability, boundaries, and emotional work that meaningful repair requires.

THE AUTHOR

Vienna Pharaon is one of New York City’s most sought after licensed Marriage and Family Therapists and the founder of the MindfulMFT community on Instagram (700K followers), where her teaching reaches close to 600,000 readers daily. Vienna received her Master of Science in Marriage & Family Therapy from Northwestern University, and trained extensively at The Family Institute, Bette D. Harris Center. She has been featured in The Economist, Netflix, BBC, Vogue, and Men’s Health, has spoken on stages around the world, and has presented workshops to companies including Peloton and Netflix.

MAN-MADE

HOW WE DESIGNED A WORLD THAT LEAVES
WOMEN OUT, AND HOW WE CAN MAKE IT RIGHT

An industrial designer and former Global Creative Director at Nike delivers a sharp critique of the consequences of a world built by and for men, and offers an optimistic look at how we might build a better world for us all.

Women and men inhabit the same world, yet it does not suit them both equally. In construction, 90% of women are unable to find proper fitting safety gear. These outcomes are a result of products where the female population is an afterthought at best. Automobile crash test dummies used for safety tests are designed based on male anatomy, as is firefighting gear and personal protective equipment. Using a “shrink it and pink it” strategy, sneakers for women scaled down versions of those originally designed for a man’s foot, and colored pink.

But Man-Made, isn’t a patriarchal lament; it is a rousing call to action drawn from research-backed insights, market analyses, and expertise from leading designers, executives, and economists. Rethinking and expanding product design and architecture, Reuther contends, will not only create a world that better fits women, but a world that better fits everyone.

“A powerful and urgent call to action—for the health and safety of half of our population, it’s time we rethink the male body ideal and build a world that includes us all.”—Dr. Elizabeth Comen, MD, associate professor of medicine at NYU Langone, and bestselling author of All in Her Head

“A powerful perspective on how women are impacted by a world primarily designed by men, for men....Readers who are interested in women’s rights, design, innovation, inclusion, and safety will find this book interesting.”—Booklist

THE AUTHOR

Karen Korellis Reuther has been a designer for over 40 years. She is on the faculty at Harvard’s Graduate School of Design, where she teaches in the Masters in Design Engineering program. She was the Vice President of Creative Direction and Innovation at Reebok and served as the Global Creative Director at Nike for twelve years. A popular guest lecturer and public speaker at Harvard and across the world, Reuther also founded the Inclusion by Design event series, hosted by the Harvard Grid, which brings together students, faculty, and practitioners who share her commitment to designing a world that is safe, hospitable, and inclusive for women. She is a chairperson for the iF Design Awards and on the advisory board of the iF Design Academy. She lives in Boston, Massachusetts.

Paul Rodgers

CELEBRITY MEMOIR / MUSIC

FREE SPIRIT

MY LIFE IN BAD COMPANY, FREE, AND BEYOND

Founding member, lead singer, and songwriter from Free and Bad Company Paul Rodgers's FREE SPIRIT, in collaboration with Chris Epting, charts the author's rise through two of rock's most iconic bands and his work with some of the top musicians of the day, including Queen, as well as exploring his more recent health struggles, with a foreword by Jimmy Page.

Paul Rodgers is one of the defining voices of rock 'n' roll. A had-to-be-tough kid from Middlesbrough, England, he co-formed the band Free in the late 1960s, revolutionizing blues-based rock 'n' roll. Their hit "All Right Now" became an anthem, still cranked up today in arenas and stadiums worldwide.

After Free dissolved, Rodgers rose from the ashes to create Bad Company, anointed by Led Zeppelin as one of the first bands on their label. Their 1974 debut album is an iconic collection in rock history. Throughout the 1970s, Bad Company delivered hit after hit, fueled by Rodgers' raw blues vocals, dominating the radio waves.

An accomplished musician and writer, Rodgers blossomed as a solo artist, and also even helped revive Queen, proving his versatility on even deeper levels. Now, fresh off his induction into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, Paul is finally ready to share his tale. This book uncovers truly one of the last untold narratives in rock 'n' roll, exploring his struggles with fame, the epic highs, and heart-wrenching lows, culminating in a life-altering series of strokes that made him reassess everything.

"Paul Rodgers, the voice of all British voices" – Robert Plant

"Bad Company...who could "Rock Steady" with soul and passion. They're one of music's classic bands with songs, swagger and style."
– Jimmy Page

THE AUTHOR

Paul Rodgers has sold more than 125 million records worldwide. In 2023, Rodgers' solo album debuted at #7 on the Billboard charts. Rodgers and his bands collectively reach more than 10 million followers worldwide, supported by a strong direct-to-fan infrastructure including Bad Company's 50,000+ subscriber email list, Primary Wave Music, and dedicated North American and UK/European press teams, with amplification from longtime friends and collaborators such as Brian May, Roger Taylor, Sammy Hagar, Ann Wilson, and members of Def Leppard.

HUMOR / MEMOIR / ESSAY COLLECTION

THE LAST ONE AT THE PARTY

A MEMOIR IN ESSAYS ON DATING, DESIRE & DEPARTURES

Humor contributor to The New Yorker Sara K. Runnels's THE LAST ONE AT THE PARTY, a memoir told through essays and humorous musings about dating, desire, and daring departures: one clever party girl's reflections on modern dating, her evolving relationship to relationships, the desire to do what feels good instead of what's expected, and knowing when it's time to go, all threaded together by the valuable and vexing power of her mother's advice.

THE LAST ONE AT THE PARTY is an exploration of how we all thirst for romance, success, change, self-discovery, and purpose, told eloquently through humor and heartfelt reflection. With Sara's unique voice and signature wit, she shares laugh-out-loud stories, earnest confessions, millennial musings, and single-girl hot-takes that remind readers to embrace what they do have instead of what they don't. Through an entertaining recollection of hard-won life lessons, this narrative ultimately reveals the power of desire, the price of dating for the (love) story, the pleasure of defying norms by doing what feels good instead of what's expected, and the indelible value of knowing when it's time to go.

In an era when more women than ever are choosing themselves over mediocre partnership, THE LAST ONE AT THE PARTY is a necessary memoir that highlights the perks and plights of being single in your twenties and thirties.

For readers of Attached, 12 Rules for Life and *Don't Believe Everything You Think

Clinical psychologist Orion Taraban argues that traditional dating advice fails because it describes relationships as emotional events. They aren't. They are transactions. Two people pair off because each has judged the other to be the best option currently available, and each keeps making that judgment every day thereafter.

The moment readers understand that they are not unlucky in love, but simply overpriced for what they are offering, the whole inexplicable business of dating becomes inexplicable, and what is explicable can be understood—and negotiated.

THE VALUE OF OTHERS is the complete statement of the economic model of relationships, built at the intersection of psychology and behavioral economics and tested on one of the largest audiences any working psychologist has ever had. From a single premise, that relationships are the medium in which value is transacted, the book derives everything that follows: why the sexual marketplace has two distinct roles (captains and passengers); why the same person is worth different amounts to different buyers; why love and attraction run in opposite directions; and why marriage is being asked to do a job it was never designed to do. Readers finish with a working model rather than a collection of tips.

PARENTING

BORN WISE

HOW THE FORGOTTEN WISDOM OF CHILDHOOD CAN HELP US RAISE A NEW GENERATION

With over 2 million followers on Instagram, a podcast, and a wildly successful business, child therapist Jess VanderWier has good news for parents: you already know what to do. You just have to remember.

Parents today are struggling more than ever—and so are their kids. Rising anxiety, emotional outbursts, screen addiction, academic delays, and disconnection are viewed as problems within children that parents need to solve, yet quick fixes and strict discipline either don't work or leave parents feeling overwhelmed.

What if fixing isn't the answer? What if children are already telling us what they need, and parents must simply learn to listen?

In Born Wise, parents will learn to interpret and respond to the unmet needs beneath their child's defiance, anger, and tantrums. They will learn what happens when kids lose their wisdom to play, care, be vulnerable, and depend on their parents at an early age. Through therapeutic tools and strategies, they will learn to create environments that preserve that wisdom and become dependable leaders for their families.

Ultimately, VanderWier invites parents into a new way of seeing their children: not as problems to be fixed, but as wise humans who need to be understood.

THE AUTHOR

Jessica VanderWier is a psychotherapist, thought leader, and founder of the company Nurtured First, where she shares daily parenting insights with her 2+ million followers on social media. FIRE IN THE BELLY

THE HIDDEN SCIENCE OF IGNITING AND SUSTAINING MOTIVATION

From award-winning researcher and teacher Monica Wadhwa comes an exploration of the science behind motivation, explaining what motivation is, what kind of rewards motivate us, and why losing can ignite the fire in the belly. This book will show readers how to apply this research to their daily lives so that they can make a conscious shift in their habits.

FIRE IN THE BELLY takes the best of Monica Wadhwa's research on motivation and uses real-world stories that drive home how actionable the research is. Many of her insights are counterintuitive and surprising—like the benefits of nearly winning, the role of environment in firing genes for motivation, and how self-compassion helps motivation—but only if the person is also really conscientious.

COUNTDOWN BATTLE OF THE BULGE

THE 40 DAYS OF WORLD WAR II THAT CRUSHED HITLER'S LAST HOPE

From the New York Times bestselling author of COUNTDOWN 1945 comes a sweeping account of America's WWII forces in their greatest and deadliest hour.

After the success of D-Day and then the sweep across France, the allies are taking a pause in the days before Christmas, 1944, planning for their final drive into Germany. What they don't know is that Hitler has secretly mobilized hundreds of thousands of troops to launch a major sneak offensive on his Western front. The Battle of the Bulge is the 40-day stand against Germany's last major attempt to isolate and overpower Allied forces—the biggest, deadliest battle of the war in Europe.

Flashing between General Dwight Eisenhower's Supreme Headquarters in Versailles and Hitler's infamous Eagle's Nest—and featuring new, first-hand accounts from American soldiers on the front lines—Emmy and Peabody Award-winning journalist Chris Wallace offers a front-row seat to the Allied Powers' dramatic stand against the Nazis' desperate gamble. Countdown Battle of the Bulge tells heroic stories through deep research and interviews with members of the Greatest Generation—who fought through foot-high snow and subzero conditions, and who shared their accounts of one of the most pivotal victories of the war's final year.

EIGHT MILLION WAYS TO HAPPINESS

WISDOM FOR INSPIRATION AND HEALING FROM THE HEART OF JAPAN

A wise and joyful journey through Japan's spiritual traditions, and how they can help bring us comfort and happiness today.

Millions around the world have turned to Japan for advice on finding their Ikigai, or summoning The Courage to Be Disliked. But hidden in plain sight are Japan's unique spiritual traditions, which infuse so much of the country's culture and mindset. Without Japan's spiritual sustenance, Jiro wouldn't dream of sushi; Studio Ghibli films wouldn't spirit us away; and Marie Kondo wouldn't spark joy.

For Hiroko Yoda, these traditions helped pull her from the loneliness that followed a period of grief and loss. Yoda offers the culmination of her decade-long odyssey into the spiritual heart of her homeland, from Shinto to Buddhism to Shugendo and beyond, packed with life lessons for us all.

"A fascinating dive through hidden layers of the Japanese worldview"
—Katherine May, bestselling author of Wintering

"This book is a triumph! Hiroko Yoda dives into Japanese spirituality with an open heart and a lively, questioning mind. What she discovers is religion with a lowercase r: guidance rather than rules, generosity instead of judgment."
—Mary Roach, New York Times bestselling author of Gulp and Stiff

"As she navigates the terrain of her own grief in the wake of her mother's death, Hiroko Yoda shows us how we might ease our own suffering and awaken a profound appreciation of the beauty of the world."

—Ruth Ozeki, Zen Buddhist priest and New York Times bestselling author of Booker Prize Finalist A Tale for the Time Being

"With wise insights and meditative personal stories, Yoda inspires us all to be more intimately connected with nature—and with ourselves."
—Shunmyo Masuno, bestselling author of The Art of Simple Living
